

FAMILY TAX CREDITS

How Tax Credits Can Put Money Back in Families' Pockets

Families may be eligible for thousands of dollars in federal and state tax credits. These credits can lower the income taxes that families must pay and, in some cases, give cash refunds to families whose incomes are too low to owe taxes. And for tax year 2013, state and federal tax credits more valuable than ever. But families have to know about these credits in order to claim them on their tax returns.

Federal Tax Credits

- The Child and Dependent Care Tax Credit can offset some of the child and dependent care costs that families pay in order to work. It is worth up to $2,100.
- The Child Tax Credit helps families meet some of the costs of raising children. It is worth up to $1,000 per child. Even families who owe little or no income tax can receive at least some of this credit as a refund if they have at least $3,000 in earnings in 2013.
- The Earned Income Tax Credit is designed to boost the wages of eligible families (earning less than $46,227 if single or less than $51,567 if married filing jointly, in 2012). It is worth up to $6,044 and is refundable.

State Tax Credits

- State child and dependent care tax provisions: Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, the District of Columbia, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont, and Virginia.
