State Child Care Assistance Policies: New Jersey

- Income eligibility limit: In 2019, a family of three in New Jersey could qualify for child care assistance with an annual income up to $41,560 (195 percent of poverty, 44 percent of state median income).\(^1\)

- Waiting list: New Jersey had no waiting list for child care assistance as of February 2019.

- Parent copayments: In 2019, a family of three with an income at 100 percent of poverty ($21,330 a year) receiving child care assistance in New Jersey paid $77 per month, or 4 percent of its income, in copayments. A family of three with an income at 150 percent of poverty ($31,995 a year) receiving child care assistance paid $106 per month, or 4 percent of its income, in copayments.\(^2\)

- Payment rates: In 2019, New Jersey’s payment rates for child care providers serving families receiving child care assistance were below the federally recommended level—the 75th percentile of current market rates, which is the level designed to give families access to 75 percent of the providers in their community.\(^3\)
  - New Jersey’s monthly payment rate for center care for a four-year-old was $645,\(^4\) which was $410 (39 percent) below the 75th percentile of current market rates for this type of care.
  - New Jersey’s monthly payment rate for center care for a one-year-old was $904,\(^5\) which was $396 (30 percent) below the 75th percentile of current market rates for this type of care.

- Tiered payment rates: In 2019, New Jersey had higher payment rates for higher-quality care.\(^6\)
  - The payment rate for center care for a four-year-old at the highest quality tier was 20 percent higher than the rate at the lowest quality tier.
  - The payment rate for center care for a four-year-old at the highest quality tier was still below the 75th percentile of current market rates.

- Eligibility for parents searching for a job: In 2019, New Jersey allowed parents already receiving child care assistance to continue receiving it for up to 3 months while searching for a job.\(^7\) However, the state did not allow parents to initially qualify for and begin receiving child care assistance while searching for a job.
In February 2019, families already receiving assistance could continue doing so until their income reached $51,950. The state also allowed families already receiving assistance to continue receiving it for a graduated phase-out period of 12 months if their incomes were between $51,950 and $79,608. As of March 2019, the income limit to qualify for assistance was increased to $42,660 (200 percent of poverty), and the exit eligibility limit was increased to $53,325 (250 percent of poverty), to adjust for the 2019 federal poverty level, and the income limit for the graduated phase-out period was increased to $85,989 (85 percent of state median income) to adjust for the updated state median income estimate.

For children who are in paid foster placement, the copayment is assessed based on the income of the child, and thus almost always $0. For children who are receiving protective services and residing with a related caregiver, para-foster care provider, or in their own home with their parents, the copayment may be reduced or waived on a case-by-case basis. In addition, families with incomes below 100 percent of the 2018 federal poverty level ($20,780 a year for a family of three) were exempt from copayments in 2019.

This analysis reflects payment rates as of February 2019. The state increased payment rates for centers as of September 2019.
